

ROWLISON TOUCHES ON MARX THEORIES IN SUNDAY SERMON

Congregational Pastor Gives Interesting Discourse in Church Sunday

"Shall We Discard Jesus Christ for Karl Marx?" was the subject of a sermon by Rev. C. C. Rowlison at the First Congregational church Sunday. He said to part.

The rebellion against things as they are in the hope of establishing an order of society as it ought to be, is one of the mightiest factors in human progress.

"Any man who intensely sets himself to correct the evils of the world and who makes an honest effort to build a society that is right, seems sure to have a greater or less following. He may be wrong and his work may be wrong or he may be supremely right. He may be zealously followed while living or not till long after his death. But a sincere man is sure to be tried out, sometime or somewhere.

"The world today is seething in upheaval, caused by long generations of inequalities and injustices in Europe, yet brought to a degree of intellectual consciousness by the agitation and sacrifices of numberless men who have beheld the wrongs of their fellows, and have counted not their lives dear in attempting to correct the existing evils.

"That many of these devoted men have been cranks and fanatics, that many others whom we associate with them have been enlightened by human justice and have turned criminals, are facts not to be denied. But it should be a law in the thinking of every student of history, that it is only a society with very serious maladjustments that throws up this hot lava of neurotic and nihilistic insanity. Our only sane course is to discover and correct the social evil, and not to try by force to correct the effluvia thus thrown off.

Explain Their Theories

"Karl Marx is perhaps the highest representative of a multitude of modern men who have sought to discover and interpret the laws of human relations and human welfare by confessedly materialistic and atheistic principles.

"According to these men, it is not moral and spiritual ideals which determine social conditions, but economic laws and necessities. The laws operate in the struggle of class against class, as that struggle is seen in the fight for life in the jungle. And as the middle class overthrew the aristocracy, and now rules the world, so the proletariat, the laboring world, the 'driven trodden masses,' must overthrow this triumphant bourgeoisie and shape the civilization of tomorrow. 'The inexorable Spirit of History,' the Zeitgeist, proclaims it aloud." (Spargo-Marx, p. 117).

"Present-day civilization is evil, because it rests upon the exploitation of the proletariat. Capitalism, Marx insists, is the key to that exploitation. Hence there must be a revolution which will overthrow capitalism and will institute a new social and economic order, based upon the control of all accumulated property by the proletariat, that is by the proletarian state. In the Communist Manifesto written by Marx, it is said: 'The proletariat will use its political supremacy to wrest, by degrees, all capital from the bourgeoisie, to centralize all instruments of production in the hands of the state, i. e., of the proletariat organized as the ruling class, and to increase the total productive forces as rapidly as possible.' (Spargo-Marx, p. 118).

"Yet we must not forget that Marx was setting himself against real evils, which have caused the cataclysm of the age in which we live, and which involve every one of us. Marx's devotion to his cause was that of a martyr. And we do not solve the problems of our day by repudiating Marx and seeking to go on as though nothing is happening except what the ancient produce. There is something fundamentally and vitally wrong with the existing social order, and every true man must squarely face the facts and contribute his share toward co-operation with divine spirit which is seeking to create 'a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness.' Any other course is as fanatical and insane as was the course of the Charists in Russia before the revolution.

"Is Jesus Christ still the Light of the World?

"The law of social progress is not announced in the philosophy of the jungle, but in the power of a transformed character, a redeemed personality. You can never build up or maintain a socially just organism or institution unless you have socially just individuals constituting the organism. And when you are able to create such individuals, the outward form of your organization will make but little difference. It is not entirely certain that republican America is vastly superior to monarchist Britain, because the planes of citizenship of the two are nearly on a level. Most of us are convinced that bolshevik Russia is vastly inferior to monarchist Britain, which may be due to the difference in level in the character and personal development of the people constituting the two governments.

"With Jesus, the essential element in character must be love, not hate; good-will toward all men even enemies, not conquest; justice, not domination of any class; the recognition of an eternal principle of right to which might must be ever subordinated, and never the reverse; the assurance of a loving purpose at the heart of humanity, with which we may successfully co-operate in building up in all the world the kingdom of good-will and brotherhood."

Ask your dealer

"George, you smoke almost as many cigars as you sell, don't you?"

"I'd hate to tell you how many. But you'll notice I always smoke Adlon!"

"Adlon isn't merely a Havana filler and fine Sumatra wrapper cigar. It's a perfectly blended combination of these tobaccos that produces a flavor and fragrance with mildness you won't find in any other cigar at any price!"

"You talk like an expert, George."

"I know something about cigars! My experience goes back—I won't say how many years. I began at the cigar-maker's bench."

"What is it about Adlon that makes it different, George?"

"I'd like to explain just two of the many Adlon distinctions.

—"It took some five hundred tests of different tobacco-growths to produce the Adlon blend. There isn't another blend like it anywhere!"

—"There are no distasteful 'gums' to impair Adlon quality. These 'gums,' present in all tobaccos, are destroyed in Adlon by an exclusive process.

"Yes, sir; there's nothing in Adlon but the clearest natural tobacco—full-flavored and aromatic. It's the smoothest, most satisfying cigar you ever smoked.

"Why, Adlon is the kind of cigar you can offer your friends and feel you're handing them real smoke-enjoyment. And that's saying something, isn't it?"

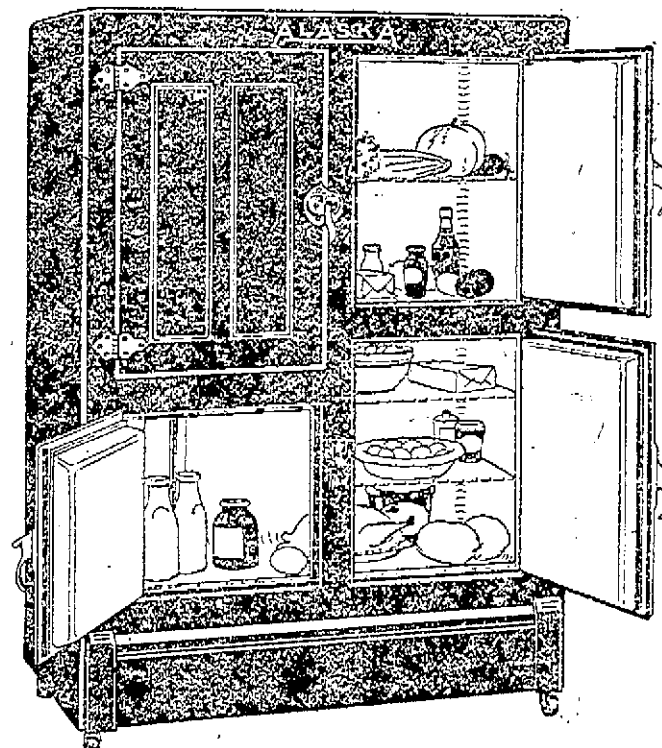

"I'll say it is, George."

You can get Adlon—the best cigar you can buy—from any good dealer.

The Alaska does more than keep foods cold. It keeps them pure and sweet as well. Thus it is an important safeguard of your family's health.

Cold, Dry Air, Always Moving

That's the secret of the Alaska's remarkable refrigerating efficiency. And that's why ice lasts so much longer in the Alaska. The "cubed" cork and "confined" air walls keep the cold in and the heat out. And the continuous circulation of air keeps foods cold, fresh and pure.

If you need a thoroughly modern refrigerator, come in and let us show you the different sizes and styles of Alaskas. Let us show you how easy they are to keep always clean, sweet and immaculate. Whether you intend to buy just now or not, you'll be interested.

U. S. STANDS FIRM IN PROTESTING OIL POLICY OF HOLLAND

Takes Exception to Dutch Claim that U. S. Protest Was Too Late

WASHINGTON.—Exception to the assertions of The Netherlands government that the United States entered its protest against the Dutch oil policy in the Djambi oil fields too late to affect the operation of that policy is taken by the American government in a new note which it has announced Tuesday had been dispatched to The Hague.

Official description of the communication was withheld, but it is understood that it contains a general denial of the assertions made in the Dutch reply of April 10 and that it makes clear to the Dutch foreign office that the United States has not altered its attitude with respect to discrimination against American oil interests.

Although the note is understood not to contain anything which might be construed as a threat, it is said not to have indicated any modification of the intimation in the note of April 10 that it might become necessary for the United States to adopt some new policy towards the Dutch government.

JUDGE KLEEBER IS FEASTING ON HOME GROWN TOMATOES

Judge Kleeber, clerk of circuit court, arrived at his office Tuesday morning with a smile as broad as the courthouse lawn, illuminating his face. The answer was revealed a few minutes later by the information that the Kleeber household was feasting on home grown tomatoes. "Yes sir," declared the judge, "We had tomatoes, nice, plump, ripe fellows, right out of our own garden Sunday and Monday."

SOLDIER'S SPIRIT IS AN INSPIRATION TO ALL OF MANKIND

The master's saying, "If anyone want to be great among you, let him serve. He does not go to get, to gain, to lord, to steal, to plunder! He goes to lay down his life for the good of his country of the world. Idealism took us into the war, if it had prevailed in concluding a just peace, the world would be at rest today."

"America is the only nation, which comes with clean skirts out of the valley of blood. We have no more great mission to perform, namely, to interfere to the world the spirit of Christ-like service! This basket speaks of sacrificial service."

Lesson of Patriotism
"Once more, the soldier teaches us the lesson of patriotism. This is the mightiest passion in the human soul. Even the Roman soldier said, 'I fight for my country, not for my money.' The love for our country is the foundation of the human heart. This quality of man to rise above the claims of his family to seek the bonds that bind him to mother, sister, sweetheart, father, brother, wife and child, and to lay down his life on the altar of his country, this is not logic, not reason, not a cold business proposition. It is a divine fire, it is holy patriotism."

"This basket speaks of the true passion of patriotism. As we sit here in this solemn hour let us repeat with President Harding as he gazed upon the 500 caskets, which were laid out in Hoboken May 29, 'I must never be again.' No this gift of patriotism which came upon this civilized world, and show millions of the flower of manhood of the white race, it must never be again."

"That the world is growing under a financial burden, and staggering on the verge of bankruptcy! No, 'It must never happen again.'"

"That mothers are called upon to sacrifice their promising sons upon the altar of the war God! No, 'It shall never be again.' For are not the mothers the greatest sufferers, the bravest fighters?"

Ignorance is Bliss
"Whoever told you, you could play golf?" sneered the expert.
"Who? Me?" asked the novice, "I'm playing just as well as any of the others, aren't I?"
"Why, man alive, you took fifteen strokes to make the first hole! Is that what you call good playing?"
"Well, I hit the ball every time, didn't I?"

"Her Negative."
"I've got her negative, old man."
"I thought you told me she would not fit her picture."
"I asked her to sit with me through life, and she said 'No.'"

HAHN BEQUEST HELD INVALID BECAUSE OF LACK OF WITNESSES

MADISON, Wis.—The supreme court Tuesday morning held that the $75,000 bequest to Mrs. L. C. Hahn, in the will of Theodore W. Johnson of Racine, was void, on the grounds that the bequest was made without the two subscribing witnesses, and that Mrs. Hahn was a party to the will.

This decision by Justice Owen upheld the opinion of the lower court, and established the requirement for subscribing witnesses to validate a will.

The court in an opinion by Justice Owen also upheld the opinion of the lower court giving Superior city the right to acquire property of the Superior Water, Light & Power company which extends into Minnesota.

Purchase by the city of the water works involves acquisition of pipe lines into Lake Superior over the Minnesota boundary. The court held that unless Minnesota law prevented, the city could legally take this property to complete its water plant.

The accident, in the opinion of the board of three army aviator officers was unavoidable and was due entirely to the storm into which the airplane ran while returning from Angley field, Virginia, to Washington.

Although they were said to have asked $5 per cent of Chicago's bread, the master bakers announced that no shortage was threatened as the vacancies were almost immediately filled by non-union men.

The strike was called because the master bakers association insisted on a 2 per cent reduction in wages if the bakers' agreement was renewed.

SPRINGWAY, Indianapolis, Ind.—Tommy Milton, driving an American car, won the 500 mile automobile race today.

Roscoe Sarles finished second, three minutes behind Milton. The victory was Milton's first in a race of this type. The time was 5:34:44.55, an average of 89.62 miles per hour, a new record for cars of not more than 125 cubic inches piston displacement.

The race started by Percy Ford and John H. Hines at the end of the first lap, nine laps behind Milton. Jimmy Murphy, who replaced Eddie Miller, was fouled off and Roger, who replaced DePalma, was fouled off. Milton, who was fouled off, was fouled off. Milton, who was fouled off, was fouled off.

Seven drivers were out of the race through accidents, but no one was injured. DePalma's car turned over on the north turn, hanging on the edge of the incline and threatening the lives of hundreds of persons below. The car did not fall, however.

Thomas hit a wall on the same turn and was forced out with a broken steering knuckle, and Wilcox, 1910 winner, had to quit when a connecting rod broke.

Jimmy Murphy skidded on the north turn, and Eddie Miller took his place. Joe Baker, after fouling DePalma to a terrific pace, dropped out at the twenty-fourth lap with axle trouble. Van Hest went out at the eighty-seventh lap with a broken connecting rod.

Chassagne lost his head and had to quit when he could not find it. DePalma quit the race.

More than 100,000 persons witnessed the race, breaking all attendance records. DePalma, driving a 1931 Buick, was fouled out by a broken axle at the 250 mile mark. He had a three lap lead over Tommy Milton at the time. Milton, who was fouled out, was fouled out.

The race was the closest in the history of the Speedway for the first 125 miles. The first five cars were on the track.

CARPENTIER SAILS INTO TRAINING AFTER TWO DAY VACATION AT HIS CAMP

MANHASSET, N. Y.—Refreshed by his two-day lay-off Georges Carpentier sailed into work Tuesday with a speed and seriousness that surprised even the easy-going manager, Des Camps, and took the breath out of some of the sparring partners.

Soon after a hearty breakfast—Georges has acquired a huge appetite—the challenger took Italian Joe Gans and Paul Journee for a grueling test over the roads in the large estate across from the camp. Half an hour's play with a soccer football, a bit of wrestling and shadow boxing and a rough and tumble frolic with Journee and Gans were a few other events on the morning program.

Georges notified the camp to prepare for a ring session in the afternoon, as he was eager to do some real work. Willie Lewis, one-time possessor of the forty-ninth lap, repairing an oil line.

DePalma went into the pit for the first time in the race on the one hundred third lap. He needed gas. He had three full laps to the goal when he drew into the pit for the first stop. His mechanic also gave him oil and water and fixed up the ballast for the final 250 mile dash of the race.

He was given a mighty cheer as he drew into the pits and again as he pulled away. DePalma's car was the last of the twenty-three which started the race to come to a stop.

DePalma was in the pit six minutes and thirty-two seconds. He and his mechanic grabbed a bit of sandwich and dished cold water over their burning faces.

Tommy Believes In Omens Of Luck When First Place Prize Bears Car Number

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Tommy Milton, winner of Monday's 500-mile Speedway automobile race, may not be superstitious, but after his victory Monday, he at least believes in omens of luck. Before the race Milton, in looking over some of the trophies offered, noticed a great silver cube with a racing car embossed on the side, one of the first place prizes. The car was numbered "2."

"You'd think that trophy had been made to order for me," remarked Milton. "Guess there's no question about my winning when they put my number on the trophies."

Milton's car was number two and it was number two that covered the 500 miles first, although the makers of the trophy probably had no idea they were naming the winner when they placed a big figure 2 on the trophy.

Milton brought his American made car through to victory by a margin much less than his three lap lead on Roscoe Sarles, second place finisher, indicated, it became known Tuesday. Milton drove the last few miles of his race with only seven cylinders of his car hitting and was on the verge of going out several times.

It was the fourth time Milton had driven in the speedway race and the second time he had gone the route. He won third place in 1920.

The race proved a great day for American cars and for Indianapolis cars in particular. Most of the nine finishers were American-made, and seven of them were manufactured here.

NO ISOLATION, BUT NO SURRENDER, IS HARDING POLICY FOR THE NATION

Declares U. S. Will Help in Restoration of Normal Conditions but Nation Must be Made Secure First

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Rejecting a policy of isolation, but taking care to surrender none of its independence, the United States will not only cooperate with other nations but will accept leadership in the restoration of normalcy in the war-torn world.

This was the declaration of President Harding in his Memorial Day address at Arlington National cemetery after reviewing the veterans of the nation's struggles in arms, from the tottering survivors of the civil war to the lusty youths of the conflict with Germany.

To do our full part in helping to stabilize the world, to restrain ambition for empire still rife, and to prevent the disaster to civilization that would flow from a denial of the equality of sovereign states or persons—to aid in accomplishing these purposes, the president said, is a heritage of responsibility from the sacrifices of those who gave their lives for the nation that we cannot evade if we would.

U. S. Leadership World's Hope

The world is looking to us for leadership, and it will not look in vain, for mankind is fated on times when there is no hope for it. Some communities seek isolation while others include unrestrained ambition for empire.

While rejecting the doctrines of isolation of the extreme "irreconcilables," the president would shun the other extreme, which would have landed us in the league of nations.

"I am not counseling surrendered independence," he said. "Our maintained freedom is the source of our might. Only the American conscience may condemn this republic."

The president made it clear that he would have the United States participate in the peace undertaking of world stabilization as it participated in the undertaking of war—without any hard and fast alliance, but in untransfused association with the other great powers.

American heroes of every war, the president said, had accomplished far more than the immediate goals for which they fought because they had helped erect and preserve a shrine for the liberty-loving of every race. He declared the whole mission of America would become an unrealized dream if this heritage ever were sacrificed.

"Our country," said Mr. Harding, "has never failed to measure up to the demands presented to it in behalf of humanity, and it never will. When to give thought to our country's security ceases to meet these needs, it will be, if may but aspire to a freedom not yet that time ever comes, the wretched and decaying memorial of another civilization that has crumbled, of another ideal which has failed, of another ambition for man's happiness which has somehow come away."

Make U. S. Secure First

In equally emphatic language the president asserted his conviction that this duty to civilization could be accomplished only if the nation took care first of its own integrity.

"I counsel no selfishness," he said. "No little Americanism, no mere patriotism, when I urge that our first duty is to our own, and that in the measure of its performance we will find the true gauge of our capacity to be helpful to others."

The president said in part: "We are not on sacred soil today for a solemn hour of sacrament and consecration. But the soil whence we come is itself sanctified through the sacrifices of those who lie here. Whenever our flag flies, within the boundaries of the republic, it is over lands whose freedom and security have been wrought through these sacrifices."

"It is the privilege of this country to offer our tribute of love and gratitude in the sacrifice of beauty without slight of the national capital. But others, no less devout, will assemble all over our land and other lands, under foreign skies and among alien peoples, to pay like tribute of love and memory to the reverence of this day."

There is no discordant note in the hymn of gratitude. With old wounds healed and a new generation's offering on the altars of our patriotism there is no sectionalism in our memorial. Above the murmurings of grief is the swelling concord of union, and the dominant note is our faith in the republic.

"It will be a tribute today spoken in many tongues, and by diverse races. Wherever men are free they are proud of humanity, and to give thought to our country's security ceases to meet these needs, it will be, if may but aspire to a freedom not yet that time ever comes, the wretched and decaying memorial of another civilization that has crumbled, of another ideal which has failed, of another ambition for man's happiness which has somehow come away."

FARMERS FLEE TO SAFETY AS FLOOD COVERS THE LAND

Dike Breaks and Reclaimed Farm Area in Washington is Inundated

WOODLAND, Wash.—Between 400 and 500 persons, farmers and their families, were believed to have escaped to safety as the result of warnings given Monday night when a dike near here protecting a reclaimed farm area of 12,000 acres broke under pressure of flood waters from Columbia river. Damage to farm property was estimated at $200,000.

Preparations have been made for the accommodation here of the refugees. The pressure of the rising waters tore a hole sixty feet wide in the dike. The dike burst at the mouth of Burrows creek, two miles south of Martin's Bluff, and the waters poured through into the lowlands with terrific force. When first reports of the break reached here last night persons residing within the section were notified by telephone from here and by persons in automobiles sent from here.

There are gathered here the ashes of a great army of those who fought in the struggle which preserved our union and insured our high place in the community of nations. Our debt to them will never be paid, but we can come for them and for ourselves on this national commemoration day to attest our veneration and adoring love. They rendered a service greater than they knew, for they saved our nation to the cause of human freedom and paved the way to that power and influence which enabled it to play its part in behalf of all mankind in the time of supreme crisis of the world."

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY ON TRIAL FOR KILLING COMRADE

KNOX, Ind.—Trial of eleven-year-old Cecil Burkett on an indictment charging him with first degree murder began Tuesday. The lad is charged with firing the rifle shot which killed Bennie Slavin, seven years old, at Ora, Ind., last Thanksgiving day.

According to attorneys the Burkett boy is the youngest person ever indicted in Indiana on the charge of first degree murder and they predict some difficulty in obtaining a jury if the state makes an effort to press for the death penalty which may be inflicted, according to law, despite the age of the lad.
